Tools for Picking a Paper Topic

Tools for Picking a Paper Topic

- News
  - Google News, LexisNexis, Factiva
- Legal blogs ("blawgs")
  - Assess your sources (consider bias and whether the blog is well-sourced, attributed to an author, and current)
- Journals and Law Reviews
  - Check to make sure your topic has not already been covered
  - Look for ideas on how to frame your topic

As the Animal Legal Defense Fund combats dogfighting by working with state officials to create stronger laws and more effective penalties for those who engage in this crime, we're also hard at work to ensure the best possible outcomes for dogfighting victims.

The Animal Agriculture Industry: Liability Proof? →

Earlier this summer, the driver of a pig transport truck struck and killed longtime animal advocate Regan Russell. The circumstances regarding her death are not fully known to the public, but top to bottom, the animal agriculture industry is rarely held accountable.

Sadly, you can't make this stuff up (more rescue importation madness)...

Like 3 Tweet Save Share 96

As if on cue, a few minutes after we put out yesterday's blog on imported Korean rescue dogs introducing a new strain of canine distemper into North America, our inbox was awash with this APB:

Officers looking for rescue dog in Leawood that escaped, possibly exposed to rabies

The escaped dog was in a group of 26 dogs imported from Egypt, in which one got sick and tested positive for rabies. The dog that escaped has not shown any signs of the disease itself.

Avalon Project - Documents in Law, History and Diplomacy (Yale's)

The Avalon Project will mount digital documents relevant to the fields of Law, History, Economics, Politics, Diplomacy and Government. We do not intend to mount only static text but rather to add value to the text by linking to supporting documents expressly referred to in the body of the text.

The Avalon Project will no doubt contain controversial documents. Their inclusion does not indicate endorsement of their contents nor sympathy with the ideology, doctrines, or means employed by their authors. They are included for the sake of completeness and balance and because in many cases they are by our definition a supporting document.

Crash Course in Administrative Law Research

Basics of Administrative Law

- Legislature passes a law, giving the broad strokes and "enabling" a government agency to implement the law
- To implement the legislature's intent, the agency typically will have to do 2 things:
  1. Promulgate regulations that provide more detailed rules & establish oversight processes;
  2. Enforce the law through those processes, including administrative hearings/adjudications
- These regulations & adjudications are generally referred to as "administrative law"

Legislative Executive Judicial
Hearings/ adjudications = quasi-judicial Regulations = quasi-legislative

Promulgating Regulations

- Agency drafts proposed regulations
- Publish proposed regulations in the Federal Register (Fed. Reg.)
- Opportunity for public comment
- Agency drafts final regulations
- Publish notice of final regulations in Federal Register
- Codify the final regulations in the Code of Federal Regulations (C.F.R.)

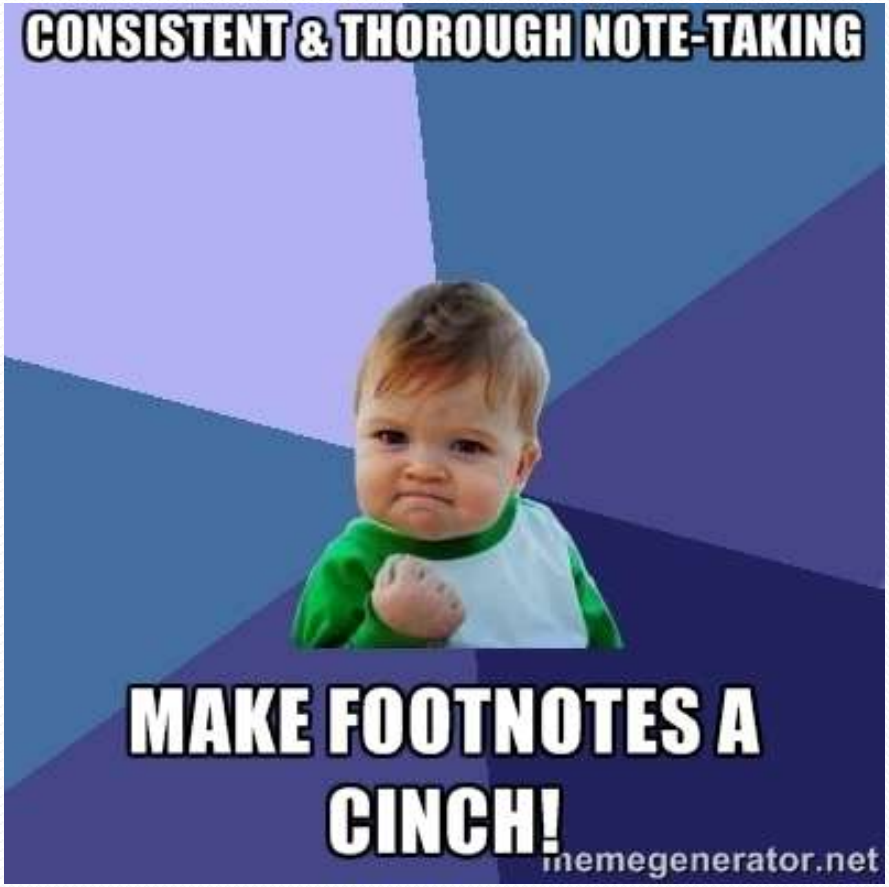
Note-taking Tools & Avoiding Plagiarism

Why good note-taking is important

- Bolster your argument
- Avoid inadvertent plagiarism
- Save yourself time and trouble when creating citations



Begin with proper note-taking

- The first step in avoiding plagiarism and giving proper documentation is to cultivate good note-taking habits.
- There's no one right way to do it. Pick a method that works for you and be consistent.
- There's an app for that. Actually, there are MANY apps for that. Three popular options:

Microsoft OneNote
Keep tabs on your life.
LiveSide.net

EVERNOTE

zotero

Proper Attribution

- Double-check your work against each source to make sure you have not accidentally plagiarized something.

- Save copies of source material (journal articles, books, online sources) until you have finished writing your paper or until you've received a final grade on the paper.

Paraphrasing

- Paraphrasing is restating the meaning of a segment of text either by expanding and clarifying, or by summarizing the main points.
  - However, it's not enough to simply change a few words around, or replace words with synonyms.
  - Instead, you must rewrite the material using your own words.
- Always indicate whose ideas you are paraphrasing by providing a footnote reference (including a page reference)
- Finally, check your paraphrase against the source for accuracy, and modify phrases that match the original too closely.

Bad Paraphrasing

Original Source:
"America today has veered too far in the direction of formal testing without adequate consideration of the costs and limitations of an exclusive emphasis on that approach."

HOWARD GARDNER, MULTIPLE INTELLIGENCES: THE THEORY IN PRACTICE 179 (1993).

Paraphrase Version 1:
America has now gone too far toward formal testing, without realizing the costs and limitations of exclusively emphasizing that approach.[1]

[1]HOWARD GARDNER, MULTIPLE INTELLIGENCES: THE THEORY IN PRACTICE 179 (1993).

Better Paraphrasing

Original Source: "America today has veered too far in the direction of formal testing without adequate consideration of the costs and limitations of an exclusive emphasis on that approach."

HOWARD GARDNER, MULTIPLE INTELLIGENCES: THE THEORY IN PRACTICE 179 (1993).

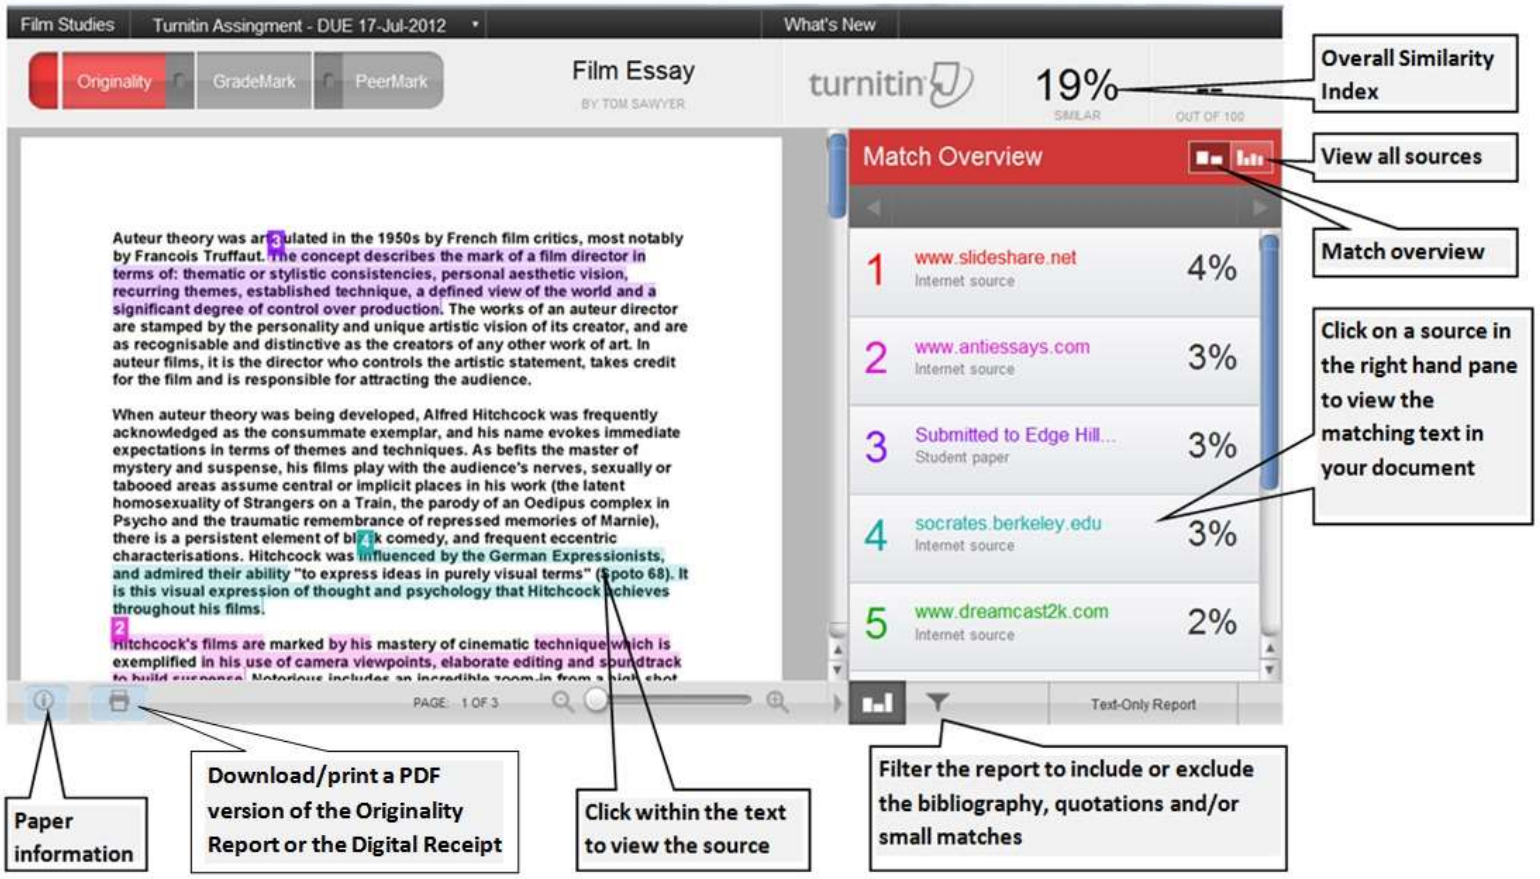
Paraphrase Version 1: In the United States, the education system places too much emphasis on formal testing, overlooking the limitations and expenses imposed when that assessment strategy is employed exclusively.[1]

[1]HOWARD GARDNER, MULTIPLE INTELLIGENCES: THE THEORY IN PRACTICE 179 (1993).

Turnitin at the LRC

- Turnitin at the LRC is an area in Blackboard where students can submit drafts of papers to check for possible instances of plagiarism before they submit final drafts to their course instructors.
- Turnitin is FREE to USD students.
- Papers submitted through Turnitin at the LRC will not be saved in Turnitin's database and will not be distributed to instructors.
- For more instructions, see our Turnitin LibGuide.

Similarity Report



Turnitin compares submitted drafts to its database of scholarly research (journal articles, student papers, and other internet sources) and returns a Similarity Report that highlights a percentage of matching text.
