Welcome to USD

For more than six decades, the University of San Diego has been dedicated to providing a values-based education with a mission grounded in Catholic social teachings. Students are encouraged to explore how faith and reason are compatible in education, and to develop strong moral convictions. USD welcomes students, faculty and staff of all faiths, and believes all people benefit from the examination of other traditions.

Like California's oldest city, the University of San Diego took its name from San Diego de Alcalá, a Franciscan brother from Alcalá de Henares, a monastery near Madrid, Spain. The university's 180-acre campus is called Alcalá Park, and the Spanish Renaissance architecture that characterizes Spain's 500-year-old University of Alcalá serves as the inspiration for buildings on the university campus.

Under the leadership of Mother Rosalie Clifton Hill of the Society of the Sacred Heart and Bishop Charles Francis Buddy of the Diocese of San Diego, USD began as separate colleges for men and women. The founding charter of the San Diego College for Women and San Diego University — comprising the San Diego College for Men and the School of Law — was granted in 1949; in 1972 the academic institutions merged into the University of San Diego.

Now governed by an independent Board of Trustees, USD remains dedicated to the values originally articulated by Mother Hill and Bishop Buddy. Students choose from dozens of undergraduate and graduate degree programs in academic divisions including the College of Arts and Sciences, the School of Business Administration, the School of Leadership and Education Sciences, the School of Law, the Hahn School of Nursing and Health Science, and the Joan B. Kroc School of Peace Studies.

Academic Excellence

An education at the University of San Diego is founded on a single and unwavering principle: the pursuit of academic excellence. A liberal arts education at USD encourages students to develop critical thinking skills, engage in collaborative inquiry and participate in a free exchange of complex ideas.

Admission to USD, which consistently ranks among the top schools in the United States, is highly selective. The university received more than 16,500 applications for 1,074 undergraduate openings in Fall 2012. The Class of 2016 entered with a GPA of 3.92 and an average SAT score of 1220.

In 2012, U.S. News & World Report ranked USD as one of the top 100 universities in the nation, and No. 14 on its Up-and-Coming Schools list. Additionally, the publication ranked the Hahn School of Nursing and Health Science among the top 50 graduate schools, and the Department of Engineering No. 27 among undergraduate engineering programs. According to The Princeton Review, USD is ranked No. 2 in the category of Best Campus Environment, and No. 18 on its list of Great College Towns. BusinessWeek ranked the School of Business Administration at No. 14 in Part-Time MBA Programs and No. 36 in Undergraduate Business Programs.

Financial Aid

Sixty-six percent of undergraduates enrolled in Fall 2012 received some form of financial aid, totaling more than $129 million. More information is available at the Office of Financial Aid or its website, www.sandiego.edu/financialaid.

Leading Change

USD's Catholic social mission and public purpose — to foster compassion and fashion a more humane world — is conveyed in the attitudes, skills and knowledge fostered among its students through a myriad of curricular and extracurricular activities that span from community service to field-based courses to social venture design. As Changemakers, our students are creating positive social impact around the world. They exhibit important traits of the Changemaker, such as empathy, creativity, humility and leadership.

In September 2011, USD solidified its position as a leader in developing innovative, socially minded curricula and programs by announcing a landmark partnership with Ashoka, a global nonprofit organization known for its groundbreaking work in the field of social entrepreneurship. Ashoka's designation of USD as a Changemaker Campus is recognition of the university's commitment to finding sustainable solutions to the world's most pressing problems.

USD is the first university on the West Coast to join the Ashoka network of Changemaker institutions, and the second Catholic university. Through this designation, USD exchanges best practices on education, research and service for social change with the 19 current members of the Changemaker Campus network, which includes Duke University, Brown University, Middlebury College and Arizona State University.

To connect and create more opportunities for the USD community, the university launched the Changemaker Hub as a campuswide manifestation of its commitment to creating a more sustainable and socially just world.

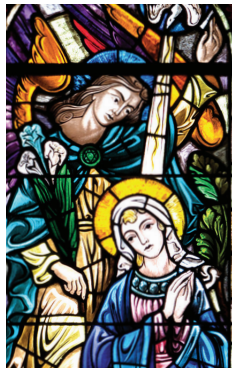

Sustainability

At USD, sustainability is more than just a practice: it's a way of life. Student-led initiatives help provide sustainable solutions to the issues that define our times. Faculty members play an active role by incorporating sustainability both in and out of the classroom, and by serving on the USD Sustainability Task Force. Collaborative research projects between faculty and students are paying immediate dividends for the university community and society at large, including a $5 million grant by the National Science Foundation to educate community leaders about the impact of climate change.

As an efficiency leader, USD has worked to foster an ethic of conservation and innovation. Over the past two years, the university has reduced its energy consumption by over 20 percent, reduced its water consumption by over 33 percent, and installed over 5,000 photovoltaic panels. These panels currently generate 14 percent of the university's peak energy needs, making USD one of the largest solar energy producers among all private colleges in the United States.

The first of its kind on a college campus, the USD Electronic Waste Collection Center is a living example of the university's Ashoka designation, and its commitment to social entrepreneurship. Since opening in April 2011, the center has actively diverted over 195,000 pounds of e-waste from landfills. Heralded as a safe, secure and sustainable means of waste diversion, the E-Waste Collection Center has become an important resource for USD and the entire San Diego community.

As a result of its commitment to sustainable practices, USD was named Outstanding Sustainable Organization of the Year by the California Center for Sustainable Energy in 2012.

Catholic Identity

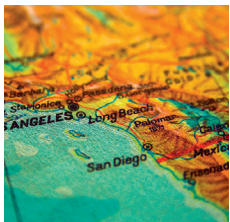

As a Roman Catholic institution, the University of San Diego believes that faith and reason are compatible in education, and that true knowledge can only be cultivated in a community environment that fosters intellectual freedom, personal development and mutual respect.

USD embraces the ecumenical and interfaith teaching of the Second Vatican Council, and welcomes students, faculty and staff of every faith tradition or no faith tradition. The university's Catholic identity is declared through a campuswide commitment to serving others, developing an active faith community, and fashioning a more just and humane world. University Ministry provides daily Masses in Founders Chapel and sponsors a variety of retreats, service and immersion programs, faith sharing groups and sacramental preparation.

The Frances G. Harpst Center for Catholic Thought and Culture articulates the message of the Catholic intellectual tradition through thought-provoking lectures, programs and cultural events. And through the efforts of the Joan B. Kroc Institute for Peace & Justice and Joan B. Kroc School of Peace Studies, USD affirms its commitment to addressing issues of peace and justice.

The benefit of this Catholic identity is first to the students, but ultimately to society at large.

The university offers a variety of services and Masses during the 2012-13 academic year, such as the All Faith Service and the Mass of the Holy Spirit. Additional Masses include: Daily Mass, Monday – Friday, 12:15 p.m., Founders Chapel in Founders Hall, held year-round; Sunday Mass, 7 p.m. and 9 p.m., Founders Chapel in Founders Hall, held each Sunday while classes are in session; and the Mass For Peace, Wednesday, 9 p.m., Founders Chapel in Founders Hall, held each Wednesday while classes are in session. Additional information can be found at www.sandiego.edu/um, or at www.sandiego.edu/cctc.

International Studies Abroad

Two-thirds of USD's undergraduate students participate in a wide range of study abroad programs that vary by duration, location and area of academic study. USD has been ranked No. 1 for the percentage of undergraduates participating in a study abroad program, according to the Institute of International Education's 2012 Open Doors Report.

Currently, USD offers programs in over 80 cities worldwide. Students have the opportunity to study abroad during fall and spring semesters, January Intersession or summer term. During the semester-long sessions, students have the option to participate in an exchange program where they study at one of USD's prestigious partner institutions around the globe. USD's faculty-led summer and Intersession programs, which range from three to four weeks, are another unique opportunity for international exploration. In these affordable programs, students participate in courses and programs specific to the location they visit.

The Second Year Experience Abroad program is a special opportunity for sophomore students to study abroad for three weeks during Intersession of their second year at USD. Students take core curriculum courses taught by USD faculty in one of three locations: Florence, Italy; Hong Kong; and Seville, Spain. The program, which is a collaborative effort between the departments of Academic Affairs and Student Affairs, brings USD faculty and student affairs professionals together with USD students to create a unique and integrated study abroad experience.

Requirements

A grade point average of 2.75 or higher, depending on the program, is required for participation in all USD study abroad programs. Students who study abroad for a semester must enroll in 12-18 units abroad and must have completed a minimum of 45 units prior to departure.

For updates about international opportunities abroad or to obtain an application, visit the International Center in Serra Hall, Room 315, or go to www.sandiego.edu/studyabroad.

Athletics

The University of San Diego has established a long history of athletic success since fielding its first sports teams in the early 1950s. In 1961, USD adopted the nickname “Toreros,” the Spanish word for bullfighters. The Toreros’ traditional team colors are Columbia blue, navy blue and white.

In 1979, USD made the jump into NCAA Division I athletics, joining the West Coast Conference (WCC) that same year. Other WCC teams are Loyola Marymount, Pepperdine, Santa Clara, San Francisco, Portland, Gonzaga, Saint Mary’s, Brigham Young, and, as of summer 2013, the University of the Pacific. USD has won an unprecedented five consecutive WCC Commissioner’s Cup trophies for best all-around athletic program.

Athletic facilities include the Jenny Craig Pavilion, home of the basketball and volleyball teams; Torero Stadium, home for football and soccer; the USD Softball Complex; and a fitness center open to all students. Fowler Park and Cunningham Field, home to Torero baseball, will open in 2013 with a new state-of-the-art facility. In 2012, Torero Stadium played host to the College Cup, the Final Four national championship for women’s soccer.

NCAA Sports

Men’s: baseball, basketball, cross country, football, golf, rowing, soccer and tennis.

Women’s: basketball, cross country, rowing, soccer, softball, swimming and diving, tennis, track and field, and volleyball.

Club Sports

With an ideal climate and an active student body, it’s easy to see why club sports are such an integral component of the student experience at USD. Currently, more than 500 students participate each year in events ranging from surf contests up and down the California coastline to weekend-long rugby tournaments featuring college teams from across the country.

Club sports teams include: baseball, beach volleyball, climbing, dance company, diving, equestrian, golf, lacrosse (men’s and women’s), officials club, roller hockey, rugby, skiing/snowboarding, soccer (men’s and women’s), surfing, tennis, ultimate frisbee, volleyball (men’s and women’s), water polo (men’s and women’s) and waterskiing.

To learn more about club sports, call (619) 260-4533, or visit www.sandiego.edu/campusrecreation/sports_clubs.

Campus Culture

One of the best parts about being a student at the University of San Diego is experiencing life on campus. The friendly and energetic atmosphere guarantees that there is always something to do, and someone to do it with. The active, thriving community offers plenty of opportunities to get involved with fellow students and residents from the neighborhood surrounding Alcalá Park.

Living on Campus

Four campus-housing areas are designated for freshmen. Within the freshman residential facilities, floors and wings are gender specific and offer either semi-private or community-style bathrooms. Upperclassmen and transfer students also have the opportunity to experience on-campus living, and can choose from five uniquely styled apartment complexes. Graduate and law students are housed in Manchester Village and the Presidio Terrace Apartments.

This year, a total of 2,600 freshmen, transfer, returning upperclassmen, law and graduate students are enjoying the academic, programming, safety and convenience benefits associated with being members of the campus residential community. All student residents have immediate access to professional community directors, resident ministers and student resident assistants who are committed to enhancing their academic, social and spiritual growth.

In 2012-13, five Living Learning Communities (LLCs) are being housed within Missions B and Maher Hall (a number that will increase to nine in 2013-14), bringing students with similar interests — such as honors, sustainability and social change — together in the residence hall areas. This exciting program will continue to grow and develop in anticipation of all freshmen being a part of a living learning community by Fall 2013. LLCs also include first-year commuters. Freshmen in the LLCs are able to share ideas, discuss different perspectives outside of class and enjoy the company of friends with similar passions; thereby becoming more engaged in USD's residential community. This program is a partnership between the Department of Student Affairs and the College of Arts and Sciences.

Student Life Pavilion

The 50,000-square-foot Student Life Pavilion (SLP) — the hub of campus life — features an outdoor Plaza Mayor, abundant dining spaces with a wide range of delicious dining options, an award-winning market and numerous spaces for student government, Greek life, and student centers and organizations.

The SLP has earned gold LEED certification, a designation that reflects the facility's exemplary environmental practices regarding sustainability.

Dining Services

Dining Services offers students, faculty, staff and guests high-quality, nutritious food in a variety of convenient and comfortable settings. The university's self-operated dining and catering team serves more than 8,000 meals daily. Academy-certified chefs and experienced culinary staff are passionate about the food and services they provide for the campus community each day. Pavilion Dining, located on the first floor of the Student Life Pavilion, offers 12 uniquely delicious dining options, as well as a culinary workshop encompassing an array of global cuisine. Recipes are made up of fresh, quality ingredients and were developed in conjunction with the Culinary Institute of America at Greystone.

Transportation

There are many ways to get around campus and San Diego for those without access to a car. The USD Tram Service is an on-campus shuttle service that moves students, faculty, staff and visitors to various stops on the campus. The USD Tram Service also provides morning and evening service to the Old Town Trolley Station. Zipcar provides students with the freedom to have transportation when they need it, without the expense and trouble of having a personal car on campus. San Diego bus stops and trolley stations are just a short walk from campus.

Student Organizations

More than 150 organizations, including fraternities and sororities, academic clubs and multi-cultural associations, are open to students. For more information regarding student organizations, please contact the Student Leadership and Involvement Center at (619) 260-4802, email slic@sandiego.edu or visit the office in the Student Life Pavilion, Room 316.

Campus Recreation

More than half of the university community — undergraduate and graduate students, faculty and staff — participate in one of the many campus recreation programs offered each year. Intramurals include leagues in flag football, softball, tennis, volleyball, soccer, basketball and inner-tube water polo. More than 60 recreation and fitness classes are offered each semester. USD club sports host more than 500 students participating in 24 club teams. Aquatic offerings include classes in swim training, water polo, surfing, wakeboarding, scuba, kayaking, sailing, stand-up paddleboarding, water-skiing and flow boarding.

The Sports Center is available for informal games of basketball, volleyball and tennis. A 12-lane heated lap pool is open for aquatic activities ranging from lap swimming to pool basketball. Nearby, find a grab-and-go snack bar, equipment checkout and locker rooms. Additionally, the Sports Center has an on-campus athletic trainer who specializes in injury prevention and rehabilitation.

The Mission and McNamara fitness centers offer fitness programs and informal training on both cardio and resistance training equipment. Additionally, 20 "fit & active" drop-in classes are offered each week, along with opportunities to work out with a personal trainer.

Outdoor Programs — an on-campus resource for students, faculty and staff — offers skiing, rafting, rock climbing, horseback riding, mountain biking and hiking outings.

Public Safety

USD's public safety officers patrol the campus around the clock, seven days a week. The department offers a series of crime-prevention programs, Rape Aggression Defense courses and a dusk-to-dawn public safety escort for community members walking to any location on campus or within a one-mile radius.

Life in San Diego

California's second-largest city and the United States' eighth-largest, San Diego's population is made up of more than 1.37 million residents. Proximity to the Mexican border gives the city an international perspective that is reflected in the region's architecture, culture and celebrations.

With an average daytime temperature of 70.5 degrees and sunshine nearly 300 days a year, San Diego is one of the few places in the world where residents can catch a wave in the morning, drive a few hours to ski or play in the snow, then head for the desert in the evening.

Home to a thriving music, theater and arts scene, San Diego boasts 70 miles of pristine beaches and an array of world-class family attractions. The renowned San Diego Zoo is just one small part of Balboa Park, an urban expanse that houses the largest concentration of museums on the West Coast, as well as art galleries, beautiful gardens and the Tony Award-winning Old Globe Theatres.

Petco Park is home to baseball's San Diego Padres, while Qualcomm Stadium houses the NFL's San Diego Chargers.

The Mission Bay Aquatic Center is the world's largest recreational waterfront facility, offering instruction in an array of water sports, including sailing, surfing and kayaking. The center is designed primarily for the students, faculty, staff and alumni of San Diego's colleges and universities.
