Can you help me find statutes and cases related to attorney duties during appeal?

Can you start a public benefit corporation in Delaware, or do you have to convert?

Is there a way to find out where military ships have traveled?

Where can I find outdated immigration forms?

My client doesn't believe that her case in the appellate division of Superior Court won't have a jury. What sort of legal authority can I show her to prove that?

How do I find allowable tax deductions from 2014?

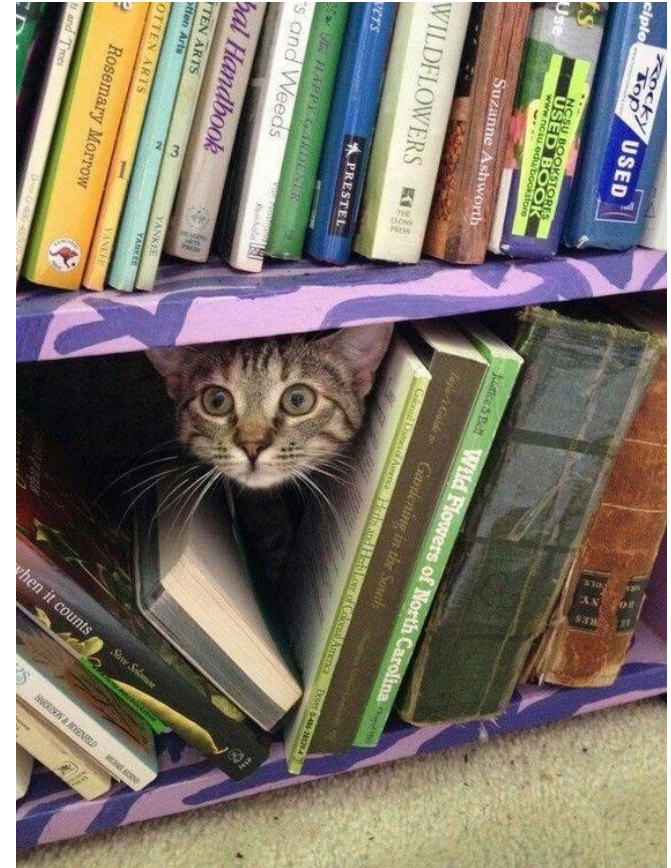

How can I find cases related to prosecutorial discretion in immigration cases?

How can I find the legislative intent of a federal statute?

How can you figure out when attorney's fees are available under a statute?

About the Clinics

The University of San Diego School of Law's Clinical Education Program provide students with the opportunity to train under experienced professors and attorneys while providing free legal services to San Diego residents in need. Click here for more information and to view the full list of Librarians are here to help!

This guide is a collection of the library resources students may find helpful when working at the USD Legal Clinics. Click the side tabs for clinic-specific resources.

Librarians are available to assist with your clinic legal research via chat, email, or Zoom, M-Th 9am-6pm, Fri 9am-5pm, and Sun 12pm-4pm.

To reach us via chat, click the chat widget on the lower right corner of this screen. To send us a question over email, or to schedule a Zoom research consultation, please email the LRC Reference Department at lrcrefer@sandiego.edu.

Librarians also hold weekly reference office hours at the clinics during the semester. These hours are listed on the LRC Reference @ Legal Clinics calendar.

Will I be doing the same type of research for the clinic as I did for my Legal Writing & Research class?

Not exactly.

In addition to the resources for searching case law and statutes that you have already mastered, you will be using general and specialized practice materials:

- Litigation materials
- Local court rules and forms
- Arbitration information
