- Project for a professor
- Moot Court
- Unpaid non-profit public interest internship/externship or pro bono work required for graduation, except as stated below.

lawschool.westlaw.com/registration/summerextension.aspx

DUE TO THE VOLUME OF REQUESTS, YOUR SUMMER EXTENSION MAY TAKE SEVERAL MOMENTS TO PROCESS. YOU WILL RECEIVE A CONFIRMATION WHEN IT HAS COMPLETED. (Once you click "I Agree" the process may take several minutes)

I hereby request continued access to Westlaw during the summer to use my current student password, for the reason listed above. I understand that I may access and use Westlaw solely for Academic Purposes directly related to my course work at my law school. "Academic Purposes" do include usage for purposes directly related to coursework at the Law School (including pro bono and public service program, unpaid public internships or externships that are part of graduation requirements or law school course credit) or for bar preparation purposes. "Academic Purposes" do not include research conducted for a law firm, corporation or other entity (unrelated to law school) that is paying you to conduct said research or that is passing along the costs of said research to a third party. These are deemed commercial purposes.

I understand that using my Westlaw student password for Non-Academic Purposes is strictly prohibited. I also understand that practice and personal use are not educational purposes and are not valid reasons for extending my password.

West, a Thomson Reuters business, reserves the right to collect from users all Westlaw charges incurred through use of the law school password for purposes other than Academic Purposes at the then-current commercial Westlaw rates.

4th Circuit rules landowners' lawsuits over flooded mine untimely

3/10/2017 | REUTERS LEGAL

The federal Superfund environmental cleanup law did not afford landowners in Virginia extra time to sue Murray Energy's Consolidation Coal unit for flooding an exhausted mine underneath their properties between 1994 and 2003, a U.S. appeals court ruled on Thursday.

HESS v. TRAMMELL

Nos. 13-5091, 13-5092, 13-5093 | Tenth Circuit | October 23rd, 2013

Neil M. Gorsuch

Mr. Hess is entitled to a COA only if he makes a "substantial showing of the denial of a constitutional right." 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(2). And he can do that only by showing that reasonable jurists could debate (or agree on) a different resolution of the habeas petition or the merit of further proceedings. Slack v. McDaniel, 529 U.S. 473, 484 (2000). Having fully considered all of his many arguments, we agree with the district court that he hasn't met this standard. The first constitutional right Mr. Hess says he was denied is his due process right not to plead guilty while incompetent.

He responds by faulting an ineffective appellate counsel for choosing not to do so. Because we, like the district court, find neither of his attorneys constitutionally ineffective, we cannot agree (as we would have to) that the district court's procedural ruling was debatably incorrect. See Slack, 529 U.S. at 484. Neither can we issue a COA because the district court erroneously barred his ineffective assistance of counsel claims — because the district court didn't bar those claims. In sum, neither these nor Mr. Hess's other arguments convince us that the district court's denial of his habeas petitions was debatably incorrect or that the issues he raises merit further proceedings.
